OVERVIEW

The firm’s insurance coverage practice is the largest in Indiana and national in scope. We represent only policyholders. The firm has been instrumental in shaping the law in Indiana (and elsewhere) by successfully handling many of Indiana’s most important insurance coverage decisions. Other firms write about the cases we litigate.

Our clientele includes all types of policyholders, from Fortune 500 multi-national companies, mid-market entities, and small businesses with, often, hundreds of millions of dollars at stake to small businesses and individuals. Our clients include manufacturers, utilities, municipalities, petroleum marketers, transportation companies, and large and small businesses of every sort.

Our insurance coverage lawyers have experiences in a wide array of insurance-policies types and coverages. These include liability claims, property losses, environmental, D&O, E&O, health, disability, life, and major auto disputes. We also represent policyholders in claims against insurance agents and brokers. We help our policyholder clients with all facets of insurance recovery. We assist with claim preparation, notification, and submittal. Whether it is arbitration, trial, or an appeal, clients regularly seek our assistance to handle their insurance-recovery litigation. However, we also advise clients before there is a dispute on the coverages they have and help them find the coverages they need. This coverage portfolio review and risk assessment can help policyholders avoid disputes down the road when that unexpected claim arises.
