

Angela M. Green Named Co-Chair of Insurance Subcommittee of the American Bar Association's Environmental Litigation Section

November 11, 2015

Angela M. Green
Attorney

Angela M. (Dorrell) Green has been named Co-Chair of the Insurance Subcommittee of the American Bar Association's Environmental Litigation Section. The Environmental Litigation Committee is dedicated to helping its members become better environmental litigators. Each year the committee identifies the legal issues and topics that are at the forefront of the practice and brings together lawyers, judges, consultants, and in-house counsel to teach and inform its members.

Green is an attorney with Plews Shadley Racher & Braun LLP. She focuses her practice on litigation and legislative and regulatory issues in commercial and environmental law and insurance coverage. Before joining the firm, Angela worked for the Mitch Daniels for Governor Campaign Committee and Transition Team, the Indiana House of Representatives, and served as the Indiana Executive Director of the 2000 George W. Bush presidential campaign.

To learn more about Angela Green and her practice, please visit her bio.

To learn more about the American Bar Association's Environmental Litigation Section, please visit <http://apps.americanbar.org/litigation/committees/environmental/about.html>.